"Bring flowers, fresh flowers, o'er the bier to shed
A crown for the brow of the patriot dead
Bring flowers, they are springing in wood and vale,
Their breath floats out on the springtime gale.
Though they smile in vain for what once was ours,
They are love's last gift. Bring ye flowers, fresh flowers."

Saturday was the day set apart in this city and vicinity upon which to do honor to the memories of the many fallen heroes who offered up their lives as a sacrifice upon the altar of their country, and as a reminder of the heroic deeds and patriotic achievements of those who fell in the last great struggle on this continent for human liberty, and most fittingly was it observed. Our citizens, whose liberality, patriotism and zeal during the terrible conflict was excelled by that of no people in the land, united with almost one accord, without distinction of classes, parties, creeds or sects, in the observance of the day. The business houses generally, and all the public offices, were closed, and the houses along the route of the procession were, many of them elegantly and tastefully, decorated with draped flags at half-mast and other displays of an appropriate nature. The day was all that could be desired. Early in the morning a light shower of rain fell, after which the sun shone out brilliantly and dispelled the floating clouds, and a refreshing breeze tempered its rays to genial pleasantness.

At an early hour the people from a distance began to assemble, and by nine o'clock the principal streets and avenues were thronged with those who had come to do honor to those who had died in their country's defence. Men, women and children by thousands crowded the streets, each bearing a boquet or wreath of evergreen and flowers, tributes to the memory of those they desired to honor; yet all was quietness; no dashing through the streets by mounted men; no drunken brawls at the street corners; all seemed impressed with the solemnity of the occasion, and the draped flags at half mast, the solemn strains of the dirges played by the bands, and the muffled sound of the drums, as the various delegations slowly and orderly marched to the places assigned them in the line, showed clearly that although those whose memories were intended to be honored "sleep to wake no more," were still dear,

"And they who for their country die
Shall fill an honored grave;
For glory lights the soldier's tomb
And beauty weeps the brave."

AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Childhood, youth and gray hairs, the orphan, the soldier, the civilian, representatives of every class and age and sex, made up the patriotic audience which packed the Academy of Music, long before the commencement of the literary exercises of the morning. Aside from its size, the most impressive and touching feature which marked the assemblage above all others was the appearance of the orphans, over one hundred in number, neatly arrayed, each having a fresh boquet of flowers, and filling the front seats of the parquette, in full view of every spectator. That heart was cold, indeed, which could look on the sight in all its eloquence, and not learn a new and deeper meaning in the exercises, and engage with more heartfelt earnestness in the after memorial observances of the day. Indeed, few looked upon the bright beaming faces of these innocents, the adopted children of a great and powerful State, but thought how noble must be a Commonwealth, how grateful, how just and generous, to gather together these helpless little waifs left fatherless by a cruel war, to kindly foster and nourish them beneath the roof of sheltering homes, where they will be reared as tenderly and carefully as though a mothers' love hovered over and guarded and guided their footsteps. Pennsylvania is proud of her record in caring for the orphan children of her soldiers, and these little ones will grow up to honor, revere and love her institutions and herself with a zeal and earnestness others cannot know. God bless the soldiers orphans!

At half past nine o'clock Rev. Dr. Howard, Hon. John M. Kirkpatrick, Major J. F. Denniston and Capt. H. A. Collier entered and took seats upon the platform, followed by Gen. A. L. Pearson who opened the exercises by reading Gen. Logan's order relative to the observances of the occasion.

Dr. Howard then led the audience, standing, in a beautiful and impressive prayer.

The Allegheny Quartette Club were next introduced, and sang with thrilling effect the following Memorial Hymn, composed by Miss S. B. Nichols, of Allegheny, and dedicated to the Grand Army of the Republic:

HYMN.

Cull the bright flowers of May,
Lev garland and rose-bud fall
O'er the lowly graves of our slumbering braves,
Who went at our country's call.
Rallying 'neath the old flag,
Comrades who gathered before,
But we wait in vain for the messmates slain,
Whom the bugle call wakes no more.
Roll, roll the drum,
Muffle the notes as they fall,
For the ranks will tell of many who fell,
Whom the bugle blast never may call.

Peacefully may they sleep,
Far from the wild surging fray.
Yet never to know how the tears still flow
In many sad homes to-day.
Gathering at the home side
Sisters will meet as of yore,
But ah! to miss the sweet brother's kiss
Of the boys who come no more.
Roll, roll the drum, &c.

Wreaths for the old torn flag,
Draped and half masted in air,
For the boys who gave their life's blood to save,
Its honor unsullied and fair.
Mournfully may it float there,
Over their pillows of clay,
While little they heed of the flowery meed
Old comrades will offer to-day.
Roll, roll the drum, &c.

This vocal exercise was enthusiastically applauded, and was followed with an inspiriting and patriotic air by Toerge's Brass Band, after which the Orator of the Day, Hon. John M. Kirkpatrick, was introduced. He was received with the most marked demonstrations of favor, and, after quiet had been restored, spoke as follows:

THE ORATION.

MR. CHAIRMAN, LADIES, SOLDIERS AND CITIZENS:—I am profoundly honored by the position accorded me in the solemnities of this day—honored by this courtesy to myself personally, but especially and particularly honored in being enabled to speak in commemoration of the virtues and worth of our heroic dead. I need scarcely ask of this large assemblage why we are here and now gathered together, nor why the pomp and pageantry of this imposing ceremonial? This is Decoration Day. A day set apart, we hope and believe, as a perpetual reminder of heroic deeds and patriotic achievement, and in all time hereafter to be calendared as amongst the golden days of the nation's history. This, too, is the funeral day of the people, the solemn, holy day of the Republic, upon which duty and affection and memory—a most sweet sisterhood of virtues—go forth, hand in hand, to strew with choicest flowers, and to water with tears the consecrated graves of those who fought and fell, that the grand Government of our love might go down intact and unimpaired to future generations. All hail this day! and thrice honored this people who thus honor such dead! Who are these dead? They are our own fathers and brothers and sons. Who are these dead? They are they who, in response to duty's call, forgot wife and sweetheart, and family, and home, and comforts, and business, and pleasure, and laying all upon the altar of their country, rallied around her flag, marching always and only to the music of the Union, to their sacred graves which to-day we honor.

Who are these dead? They are they who left their plows sitting in the furrow, the hammer resting upon the anvil, who left forge and shop, and mill, and counting room, and office, and bar, and bench, aye, even the very pulpit itself, and following the highest behests of a most sacred duty, went forth for the good cause to battle and to death as "gaily as to a marriage feast?"

Who are these dead? They are a mighty host whom no man can number, who, taking their lives in their hands, and panoplied only in the justice of their cause, with their face to the field, and their feet to the foe, fell fighting gloriously for liberty and the rights of man! Of a truth, of a very truth, that nation is thrice honored, who honors such dead.

The cause and history of this day belongs to the past, and four years of bloody and doubtful war, was necessary to compel the mournful pageant of, and in, which we are spectators and participants.

Who of all present in this large assemblage, does not well remember the outbreak of this great war and the circumstances attending it, and who cannot recall from recent and painful history, the causes inducing it, and ending in this fearful carnival of death, the memory of which we are to pass in solemn review this day.

A great nation, strong in its integrity of purpose, and intending only to do justice to its own, and all the people of the earth, suddenly, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, so to speak, finds itself suddenly, fearfully attacked by foes and enemies in its own family and household. Dreaming only of peace, it finds itself without note of preparation or warning of any kind, confronted with a war which, from the cruelty and malignity of the attack, could only mean war to the death or for mastery. Thinking of anything and all things else, but the "Rumble and grumble and roar of war,"

it was compelled to meet it at the very threshhold, "grim visaged" and of "wrinkled front," in so terrible and portentous a form that even the best and bravest talked doubtfully and despondingly of the issue of the contest which all men foresaw would be long and bloody. Who of us cannot recall the dark days of Sumter, when treason, cowardly and fierce, as it always is, struck a blow between the very eyes of the nation with its mailed hand, that rung throughout the civilized world; and how men who knew no fear, upon the corners of the streets, and in the public places, with whitened lips and bated breath, asked of each other, "What next, what next?" How the great heart of the nation stood still, and its mighty pulsings ran up to fever heat! How the despots of the world laughed and jeered, and all the tyrannies and oppressions of the old civilization scoffed at the experiment of man's capacity for self-government, saying the one to the other, "I told you so;" "the thing is a failure." Who can forget that terrible day of April, 1861, when traitors launched their first thunderbolt of war upon Anderson and his gallant band, upon the track of which a light, lurid and baleful as of a meteor freighted with death, fell upon the world. But the great nation, though heart-sick and sore-stricken in the very citadel of her life, was not powerless. Pausing but for a moment to gather up her strength and scattered energies, like a young athlete stripped for the contest, she leaped into the arena, and picking up the bloody gauge of battle that the haughty Southron had cast at her feet, she bid defiance to all comers and to all odds. Then came the tug of war. You all remember the clarion call of the Executive of the nation, calling for seventy-five thousand men for three months' service, to aid in suppressing the rebellion. How little dreamed this good man, how far short these instruments would fail of their purpose, and how millions would take the place of thousands, and weary years the place of months, ere the rebellion would indeed be suppressed. But so it was. You all remember how, as if by magic, this first contingent was raised, and how strong men wept and offered money for places in the ranks of those who first made muster roll in the Grand Army of the Republic. And so the war went on. The strong, young giant of the North, with his Union auxiliaries of the South wherever found, grappled with his foe, "and all the world wondered," and all the world looked at this Titantic struggle, which all the world saw and knew had only life and death wrapped up in its issues. Pedestaled upon the granite of eternal truth, and backed only by the justice of his cause—from the plains of Manasses to the apple blossoms of the Appomatox, he hewed his way to success and victory, and upon a thousand battle-fields carved his name so high in the marble of history, that there shall come none after him, as none came before, who can so much as touch them with their sword's point! These battle-fields are the bead-roll of the nation's sainted dead, whose memories to-day are to us, more fragrant, and laden with a sweeter perfume than the blossoms of this genial springtime: they are they over whom we this day weep; they are they whom we cover with immortelles and flowers of amaranthine hue, are they who loved us, and they who, though dead, do honor this "decoration day." Honored, thrice honored, is that people who have such dead in their keeping, and holy, holy, holy! is the grave that holds their sacred dust! But upon the field of battle these dead did not all die. Would that it were so; but alas, and alas, it is not.

Andersonville and Libby, Belle Isle and Saulsbury, Millen and Macon, and other prison pens, whose infamy is only equaled by their supporters and the cause out of which they sprang—they, too, contributed in a form and in a manner too fearful to contemplate their more than share to this terrible death roll of the nation. Starvation—death certainly in its most fearful form—slow, cruel, systematically planned and terribly executed starvation—wrote its nameless (because too infamous) history on the blood-led pages of the lost, lost cause.

The cause demanded and it was done, and in yonder cemetery, and in all the church yards and burial places of this land, lie sleeping the sleep of death hundreds, aye thousands, of strong and stalwart forms of whom it might be truly said they were starved to death by a merciless and cruel foe, that the Republic might live.

Shall we attempt to recall the long weary years of doubtful and sickening war? To do so we deem useless upon such an occasion as this. We may not even enumerate the countless battle-fields upon which the nation stood in the valor of her sons, and fought and struggled as if for her very life. Their name is Legion, and the synonyms of each of them are honor and courage of the highest type. Everywhere and upon all these, those dead men fought and fell

"As thick as autumn leaves
In Vallambrosa's vale."

How familiar the names, and how painfully each suggests some vacant chair to many a household in this loyal community of ours. Wilson's Creek and Shiloh, Belmont and Vicksburg, Chickamauga and Stone River, Nashville and Lookout Mountain, Allatoona and Wauhatchie, and Atlanta, and Macon, and Savannah, and Hudson, where black men were made white by that grand alembic which whitens the darkest skin, whose possessor fought and fell for the flag. And so, too, of Roanoke, Danville, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, South Mountain, Antietam, and the glorious achievements of the Peninsula and Gettysburg, the pivotal battle of the war, the Wilderness, Cold Harbor, Petersburg and nameless others, down to the great crowning victory of the Appomattox, where the young giant of the North, sitting down to his great rest, and wiping the sweat and the battle smoke from his war-grimmed brow, lifted up his voice and swore that "this Federal Union must be preserved: that the North could not, that the South should not, and that the world in arms could not dissolve it." And so this war was fought to the bitter end, by a path luminous with victory, radiant with valor, and all effulgent and aglow with a patriotism that knows nothing but success, and dares everything and all things in support of the grandest and greatest Government that this world has ever seen.

But, my countrymen, we owe the living before us to-day, if not greater honor, a higher and holier duty than we owe to the dead. I mean these widows and orphans who honor us, with their presence here this hour. Surely it should not be said that the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania ever permitted the wife or child of any soldier who fought and fell under and for the flag, to be in want of daily bread. These are in very deed the children of the State—children of whom she should be proud, and whom it should be her delight and honor to guard and protect. Let us see to it that it be done, not as a charity, but of duty and right. These children are fatherless save as they have one in the great Father of us all; and I call upon those entrusted under the laws with the distribution of the largesses and bounties of this grand old State to see to it, that not in a niggardly, but in a right royal and princely manner they care for and protect each wife and child of all, no matter what be their creed or color, who struck deeply and well in the honor of the state, and fell fighting for the starry banner of the Republic.

I honor Massachusetts. I honor her for her culture, her brain power and her thought. I honor her for the many good and great men that she has given to the camp and court of the nation, from its birth hour to the present time. Especially do I honor her in this, that in April 1775, in the streets of Lexington, she shed the first blood for the great revolution, and that by a most strange coincidence, in the bloody streets of Baltimore, in April, 1861, she shed the first blood of her sons in suppression of the great rebellion. But here give me a pause to say to the everlasting honor of the old Keystone State of our love and affection, that which I am vindicated in saying by the truth of history. When the national capital was a beleaguered city, when it was encompassed with foes without, and infested with traitors within, when the Chief Executive of the nation and his Cabinet were almost prisoners, and hope seemed afar off, the first troops to come to their assistance, aye the very first regiment that defiled through her broad avenues and flashed back the early light of an April morning from the folds of their banners, and their glittering steel, was a Pennsylvania regiment, officered by Pennsylvania men, and led by a boy from our grand old county of Allegheny. All hail the Keystone of the Royal Arch! All hail loyal old Allegheny! Pause not, I pray you, to ask his religious creed or political party, but if you have flowers in your chaplet that are brighter than all others else, if you have tears that if possible are deeper and tenderer than all others, let them fall I beg of you upon that young hero and leader as to-day he sleeps his last sleep in yonder beautiful and silent "City of the Dead." (Judge Kirkpatrick here referred to Col. P. P. McDowell of the Fifth regiment.)

And now in a concluding word, let me ask why should we mourn? Should we not rather rejoice, that by the death of these heroes of the nation, the nation itself, freed from all wrong and oppression of every kind, has been born again into an immortal life. Out of their graves shall grow truth and principles which will never die, and which shall educate our people up to a standard of morality and patriotism which they might not, nay, otherwise could not possibly obtain.

True it is, they are no more with us and amongst us, as of yore. True is is, that,

"On fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards, with solemn round,
The bivouac of the dead."

True it is, alas, too true! that—

"They sleep their last sleep,
They have fought their last battle;
No sound can awake them
To glory again."

But in the light of the grand and glorious results which they have accomplished, can we not smile through our tears, and brushing away the mists that will come unbidden to the eye of affection, look up and far away with a sublime hope to the better and brighter land beyond. They have not, they could not have died in vain:

They never fall who die
In a great cause, their blood may soak the ground;
Their heads may sodden in the sun; their limbs
Be strung to city gates and castle walls—
But still their spirits walk abroad. Tho' years
Elapse, and others share as dark a doom,
They but augment the deep and sweeping thoughts
Which overpower all others, and conduct
The world at last to freedom.

Thus believing, and so recognizing in all this great chastisement of this most terrible war the finger of that God

"Who rides the whirlwind
And directs the storm," and seeing further in the light of events now so plain that he who runs may read, that we of all nations are in very deed and truth the asylum for the oppressed and downtrodden all nations and peoples, without respect to color, or clime, or sect, or creed. Let us to-day—aye, even now sound the "Jubilate," instead of chanting the "Miserere," and let us, and

"All people that on earth do dwell,
Sing to the Lord with cheerful voice,
Him serve with mirth, His praise forth tell,
Come ye before Him and rejoice."

At the conclusion of the oration the Quartette Club sang the Doxology, and afterwards the song entitled, "The Unreturning Braves."

THE POEM.

Capt. H. A. Collier was then introduced, and in a very feeling and expressive manner read the following Poem, by Mr. O. T. Bennett, of this city, entitled,

DECORATION DAY.

Half mast the flag and muffle the drum,
And march with a mournful tread;
An hour most sacred to freemen has come,
As with garlands we honor our dead.

The battle's cry, the cannon's roar,
The sounds of combat and war's dread fray,
Are borne upon the breeze no more:
Peace rules our happy land to-day.

We gather now from scenes of toil,
To drop the flowers with sorrowing tears,
As, with mournful thoughts, we tarry while
Our memories turn to bygone years.

We see again the stalwart forms
Of those who were our Nation's pride,
Who answered to the call—"To arms!"
And in the battle bravely died.

We see again the gathering cloud
That stretched across the southern sky;
We hear again the thunder loud
That called our soldiers out to die.

We stand again with beating hearts,
To listen to the sad'ning news,
To feel the dreadful pain that darts,
And human comforts all refuse.

We see again the dear ones brought
In triumph from the gory field,
Where bravely in the front they fought,
Refusing to the last to yield.

Beside the open graves we stood.
And heard the harshly rattling clod,
And wept as only mourners could,
While Patriot Souls went up to God.

Could each sad heart that throbs to-day
Its mournful, weary story tell,
For mouldering heaps of lifeless clay,
What leaves the record, sad would swell.

But they have gone to the better land.
Their well known forms we'll see no more,
Obedient to a high command
They died and crossed to the golden shore.

No more upon the picket line,
Nor in the battle's awful strife,
Nor in the rifle pit and mine,
Is offered up the freeman's life.

O'er many a grave, the sod has grown,
And many a flower is blooming where
The seed by kindly hands was sown,
And watered by many a sacred tear.

But many more, Alas! there are,
Who sleep in unknown, unmarked tombs,
From homes and friends and kindred far,
And o'er their graves, the wild flower blooms.

To-day we meet with hearts of love,
To honor all the Nation's dead,
And strew with flowers, the ground above
The spot where rests the Patriot's head.

What mean the gathering throngs that meet,
And march as to an army line,
And fill the crowded city's street,
The flowers of love and hope to twine?

It means the Nation loves her braves,
And loves the past with memories fraught,
It means, We strew with wreaths their graves:
Though dead they ne'er shall be forgot.

A song entitled the "Soldier's Memorial" was then sung by the quartette club, at the conclusion of which the audience was dismissed with the benediction, by Rev. Dr. Howard, of the Second Presbyterian Church.

ROUTE OF PROCESSION.

At half past ten o'clock the procession moved, passing along Smithfield street to Second avenue, up Second avenue to Grant, up Grant to Fifth avenue, down Fifth to Market, along Market to Sixth, down Sixth to Penn, and along Penn to Wayne, when the First Division halted, and formed in open order, and the Second Division passed through en route to

ALLEGHENY CEMETERY.

As the colume passed out Penn street its ranks swelled, the school children from the various public schools along the line of march joining in the solemn cortege, and a mighty throng of people crowded the sidewalks along the entire route. A long line of school children, dressed in white, each bearing a small flag and boquet of beautiful flowers, were formed on Penn, near Baldwin street, and as the procession passed, sang a beautiful patriotic hymn. As the procession passed the Arsenal a national salute of thirty-seven guns was fired, and the different church bells were tolled. The children from the Episcopal Orphans' Home joined the procession at this point and proceeded with it to the Cemetery, near the gate of which, at least five thousand persons had assembled awaiting the arrival of the column.

DECORATING THE GRAVES.

When the head of the column reached the Cemetery gate the band struck up a solemn dirge, to which the quiet and funeral like procession marched with slow and solemn tread, until the left of the column had passed through the gate the right resting at the Cemetery office, when a halt was made. The members of the G. A. R. then formed in line, and marched to the grave of General Alexander Hays, which had been beautifully and tastefully decorated, by the friends, with wreathes of flowers and evergreens.

DECORATION DAY.

Yes, scatter them over,
With fresh roses cover
The green grass that grows on his grave;
While waters up welling,
From hearts that are swelling,
Speak thanks for the true and the brave.

'Twas not for earth's treasure,
'Twas not for their pleasure
They went forth in that hour to be slain.
But crosses all bearing,
And thorny crowns wearing,
They went to return not again.

Humanity bleeding,
A sacrifice needing
They offered their blood and their breath:
And on the world's pages
They wrote for the ages
That this land was redeemed by their death.

In jungle and thicket,
In battle, on picket,
By cold and by heat and by flood.
By hunger and tramping,
In southern swamps camping,
They died for their country and God.

So with garlands we cover
The heroes' dust over,
A nation's glad tribute to-day;
And will tell of their glory
To our children in story
As the swift rolling years pass away.

While the angels are keeping
Safeguard o'er their sleeping,
Awaiting in patience the day
When the trump of the angel
Shall sound the evangel,
"Come up from thy sleeping, O! clay!"

—Bibles are used as shaving paper in the barber shops of the New York penitentiaries.

—Children "of the best families" in Columbia, S. C., take lessons from a negro dancing master.

—Russell, a New York velocipedist, has ridden a mile in two minutes on a bicycle in a rink in that city.

—It is whispered that the Princess de Metternich has three hundred and sixty-five pairs of stockings.

—The Lowell Courier says "June is the season of roses and Jennie June is the season of the So-rosis."

—An exchange, looking at the number of fraudulent bankrupts, asserts that the best way to succeed is to fail.

—The singer who "lost his voice" offered a reward, and found it where he had left it—in his chest.—N. Y. Leader.

—A Boston lady has decided that she doesn't care for female suffrage unless it is accompanied by leap-year privileges.

—Two Louisville Policemen the other evening tried for some time, but unsuccessfully, to induce a castiron dog to take poisoned meat.

—General Grant is credited with the epigramatic remark that "office-seeking was fast becoming one of the industries of this country."

—Marshal Bazaine says that he was poisoned half a dozen times in Mexico, but that his Mexican servants gave him antidotes and saved his life.

—An exchange says celery and onions are recommended to people of weak nerves. We should think they would be a surer remedy for a weak breath.

—Philadelphia at some expense procured English sparrows to kill her worms, but the sparrows went off and killed the worms in the surrounding country.

—Bishop Colenso's two sons have reached England for the purpose of finishing their education. One will enter at Oxford and the other at Cambridge.

—A negro doctor, in Georgia, prescribed for a rheumatic old woman that she should bury all her husband's money under a stone in the garden. She did so, and though the rheumatism didn't vanish, the money did.

—The female turfites have adopted a little cocked hat, as near the shape of that worn by Napoleon I, as possible. The back corner stands up behind, and it is called a Charlotte Corday, probably because this heroic damsel wore nothing but caps.

—Mr. Enoch Statham, an ingenius mechanic, of Dundas, has perfected a knitting machine, to manufacture either cotton or woolen goods, capable of making 60,000 stitches a minute, and of being altered so as to make articles of any pattern.

—A pleasant, genial, able gentleman, who has for half a century or more consistently and successfully minded his own business, having been chosen by the popularly elected chief magistrate of the country to fill a prominent position, the peculiar and excessive politeness of the Democrats force them to immediately call him "an ass," "an old woman," "a knavish fool," and other similar pet names, as they did Mr. Borie. None but an astute person would discover that their idea is really to be polite by offering him these convincing proofs that no matter how under-bred and disgusting he may eb, they are his inferiors.

A Burning Theatre.

The stage by this time was enveloped in flames, and they had extended thence across the entire floor, and hissing, crackling, roaring, were blazing up to the ceiling itself. On the street side of the building were three windows and three blank windows, or blinds, sunk in the wall, and below, some twenty feet down, was the area and the railing, a row of sharp iron spikes. Through the three windows the flames were already issuing. At that instant a long, heavy fireman's ladder was soaring up, and falling against the upper part of the window nearest the crowd, crushed and tore down the whole length of the sash and blinds, striking on the window-sill and protuding into the fire. The heat had already driven back the doomed crowd from the window. I snatched up some clothes, which had been torn from the audience, and holding them up between myself and the flames, took a few impulsive steps towards the forsaken window, through which the ladder protruded, its end already on fire. With a spring and a daring leap through the flame I might have reached it, at least with life. I even saw a fireman's face for a moment above the window-sill, then shrink away from the overwhelming heat; but I stopped and looked at the ladder and open window. For a moment there was a possible, even probable way of escape. My heart swelled within me nigh to bursting, a sigh like a groan escaped me, and I turned back towards the crowd. No! Her fate must be my fate. Leave her perhaps still alive? Face the parents who had entrusted to my care their only child, the solace of their gray hairs? No; I could not do it; and although my heart swelled nigh to bursting, I shrank back to the dying crowd, and looked the Destroying Angel in the face.

Those about me, who were not wedged in, ran frantically from place to place, climbed up upon the people's heads, and up the columns to try and reach the galleries; but the overhanging cornice prevented it. Those in the galleries mounted to the little oriole windows, where ladders could not reach, and screamed to the shuddering throng below, while in the body of the hall the crackling platform stage fell in, the hissing flames quivered, the rolling smoke rose, and all that awful hell of fire glared in my sight, until my eyes became like convex lenses, seeming to dilate with tenfold power, until each particular horror, each flame, nay, the very sparks themselves, swelled on my sight into measureless masses of fire. As my eyes glared back at the approaching flame, the rags left on me began to smoke and my hair to curl and crisp, sharp throbbing pains darted into my heated flesh, and I cowered and shrank with fear; if fear it could be called. I had deliberately turned from the window and life to brave this, deliberately went back rather than leave her to perish alone; left the only outlet from this pandemonium to return and die, rather than face the stricken parents without their child; yet even at that moment I had probably in my heart of hearts some shadow of hope, to find the possible in the impossible, in death itself to find life; to find her, and a way of escape in that cemetery of fire. Now, even that hope-shadow had gone. No, it was not fear; down, down deeper than that, it was despair itself, and I shrank cowering back upon the crowd to die. The crowd itself was still screaming, still struggling, still there went up to heaven, and echoed back from the hard walls, the shrieks of agony and anguish. Men, women, and children called upon their God, upon fathers, brothers; others cursed and swore, and sprang frantically as the fire reached and burned them. On the other side of the hall, where the current of air drove the flames over the poor wretches, Moloch was already feasting on the horrid sacrifice, that the fire-fiends were offering at his shrine.—Putnam's Magazine, June.

AT Milwaukee, on the 28th, the case of Don. A. Curtiss and wife against the Detroit and Milwaukee Railroad, resulted in a verdict of $15,000 for plaintiffs. The suit was brought for injuries received by Mrs. Curtiss through the alleged negligense of the defendants. From the evidence it appears that the trains failed to connect at the Junction of the Grand Trunk and Detroit and Milwaukee Railways, toward evening, on the 19th of October, 1865, whereby the passengers, among them the plaintiffs, were delayed. The Detroit train finally arrived about an hour behind time, and while the passengers were hurrying to get on, it started suddenly, without warning, it is claimed, and threw Mrs. C. and her infant off, the former falling in such a manner that the cars passed over her, crushing a hand and foot so badly that it was found necessary to amputate them.

AN Indiana paper tells this story of a jealous mother. She had several children when she married her present husband, who was then a widower, likewise blessed with a large flock. Not long ago, leading in family prayer, the good old man asked for blessings on his own children, but did not particularly refer to those of his wife. The mother had, however, been watchful, and as soon as devotions were over mentioned the omission. A slight quarrel followed, at the close of which the old lady hit her husband on the head with a fire shovel, and since that time there has been no discrimination.

Washington Items.

Hon. John Allison, Register of the Treasury, left Friday evening, for his home in Mercer county, Pa., and will be absent about a week.

Minister McMahon has been heard from through Mr. Webb. About the 30th of March he was at Ascuncion under the protection of the Allies.

The Lizzie Major affair has been satisfactorily settled so far as the Spanish authorities are concerned. Spain will make the usual formal apology to the United States, and allow liberal compensation to the alleged American citizens who were taken from the vessel and imprisoned.

The account of Mr. Harvey, late minister to Portugal, has been settled, and the sum of $23,000 in gold paid to his order in full for his salary. This is nearly three years salary.

A letter received from Horatio Perry, in Madrid, says that he has discovered that in 1863, the desire of Spain to divide this country was so great that the Government of that country ordered the Spanish fleet to begin hostilities on our frontier. On the receipt of the intelligence of the battle of Gettysburg and the capture of Vicksburg these orders were countermanded.

General Sherman recommends that the President be requested to issue a proclamation to the effect, that all Indians absent from and not going towards their reservations will be treated as hostile, but that those going to their reservations will, when reaching them, be treated liberally and kindly, and that army officers be ordered to act towards them in that manner. General Sherman says it will have to come to that at last, and that now is the appropriate time.

The Wall street speculators, who have had their agents here repeatedly within the last ten days, to induce the Secretary of the Treasury to change his financial policy, having failed in their mission, have adopted new tactics, and are urging the Secretary to retire the three per cent. certificates, instead of six per cent. gold bonds. These parties will fail in this, as they did in their efforts to stop the sale of gold. The Secretary seems well pleased with the condition of affairs, both here and in New York, and will not be influenced in his movements by friend or foe.

The question whether Grant, shortly after his inauguration, had the right to annul President Johnson's pardons, is soon to come up before the United States Courts in New York.

It is understood that several important nominations of foreign ministers and consuls were determined on in Cabinet meeting, but the names of the parties selected have not transpired.

Ex Senator Carlisle is still here, but leaves for West Virginia to-morrow, without his commission to Stockholm. It is thought that Mr. Carlisle will receive the appointment, notwithstanding the Senate voted to reconsider his confirmation.

It is stated on semi-official authority that Minister Sanford's resignation has been received at the State Department, and unless he can be induced to withdraw it his successor will be appointed in a short time.

The following is a list of the only States whose ratification of the XVth Constitutional Amendment, has been certified to the Secretary of State, and is a transcript from the Department records: Missouri, March 1, 1869, (Defective); Kansas, February 27, 1869, (Defective); North Caroltna, March 5, 1869; West Virginia, March 3, 1869; Massachusetts, March 9–12, 1869; Wisconsin, March 9, 1869; Maine, March 12, 1869; Louisiana, March 5, 1869; Michigan, March 8, 1869; South Carolina, March 16, 1869; Pennsylvania, March 26, 1869; Arkansas, March 30, 1869.

The advices from England are regarded here as favorable to the United States, and in official circles it is believed that the resumption of negotiations on the Alabama question by the English Government is not very far distant. In the opinion of a high official here, recently in England, the tone of the Press, and the general ferment and excitement on Mr. Sumner's speech, shows that the conscience of England has been struck, and that the English Government begins at last to see their country as others see her. That an effort will be made by the British authorities to settle the pending complications with the United States may be judged from one or two facts. First—The London Press has been less bitter within the last few days, and it is believ-here that the Government has given some of the leading journals to understand that the continuance of their tirades and diatribes against the United States tends to embitter the two peoples and to unnecessarily inflame public sentiment. Second—Much stress is laid on the tone of private letters which have been received here within the last few days from persons high in authority and influence in England. Third—It is conceded everywhere here that Mr. Motley's reception will be of the warmest and most cordial character. Diplomats here hold that England's position is becoming weaker, and they point as evidence of what they say to her defensive attitude. The letter of Laird is commented on, and although it is but the communication of an individual, it is regarded as an apology of the whole party who cheered the Alabama on her voyage.

THE coal trade in the Piedmont and Cumberland region this year is unusually lively. It is expected that the total shipments during the year will amount to two millions of tons. It all goes to Baltimore and is for steam and manufacturing purposes, not being adapted to the manufacture of gas. The coal brings in Baltimore $5 per ton. The transportation is about $3. The cost of coal privilege, mining and loading is about another dollar, leaving $1 a ton net profit. It will be seen that the business will disburse two millions of dollars in that region during the year.

PRIVATE letters from Paris say the revolutionary feelings is increasing rapidly, and the Government has increased its police force in the principal cities of the Empire. It is reported that the Emperor of Russia is about to transfer the Russian Capital from St. Petersburg to Kiev, and that a palace at the latter place is already under construction. A railway is completed from Odessa to Kiev, and will be finished to Moscow this summer.

SOME of the pushing farmers in Bucks county, who planted their corn soon after the middle of April, have it now nearly large enough to cultivate. The rows can now be seen quite plainly. One man has Early Rose potatoes nearly far enough anvanced to begin coming out in blossom.

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases. Syphilis in all its forms, Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention give to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, Pa.

RIVER NEWS.

The river has been stationary since Saturday at noon, with six feet six inches in the channel by Monongahela marks. We had one of the most violent thunder and rain storms of the season on Saturday night. The lightning was exceedingly sharp and for an hour or more the rain fell in torrents.

The Bellevernon, from St. Paul, arrived yesterday forenoon and the Lorena, from St. Louis, was expected in last evening. The Bellevernon encountered a very heavy storm, near Steubenville, and she was obliged to lay up until it abated.

The Grey Eagle arrived and departed for Parkersburg. She was considerably behind time, having been delayed doubtless by the weather.

The New State arrived from Wheeling and will depart again to-day at noon.

The Glendale, Capt. Hare, will positively take her departure for St. Louis to-day and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind.

Business was entirely suspended at the levee on Saturday, and indeed this was pretty much the case throughout the entire city.

The Kate Putnam, Capt. G. W. Reed, is announced for Cincinnati and Louisville forthwith, and she is the only boat loading for these points.

The new steamer Matamoras No. 2, Capt. Dalzell, is announced to take her departure for New Orleans to-morrow.

The Armadillo, Capt. M'Carty, is loading for St. Louis and St. Paul.

The Leonidas was expected to arrive at Cincinnati on Friday and the New York left there the same day for Nashville.

The Camelia, Nashville to Pittsburgh, passed Evansville on Friday and the towboat Simpson Horner arrived at New Orleans the same day.

—The Argosy left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Thursday.

—All suits brought against insurance companies of Cincinnati by Marshall & Kilpatrick of St. Louis, for insurance on the steamer Magnolia, were settled last Friday, the compromise being for about one-half the amount of the claims.

—The Mollie Able was attached at St. Louis on Thursday, by Alex Crozier and Ernest Wurpel, for a debt of $1,246—machinery unpaid for.

—A Louisville dispatch of Thursday, says: The Local Inspectors of this port, in the case of the collision of the Quickstep and Allice Sullivan at Dymond Island, Ohio river, on the night of April 10, 1869, by which the latter was sunk and three lives lost, decided to-day that the collision was caused by W. F. M'Clain, pilot of the Quickstep, changing or crossing signals, and suspended his license for ninety days.

—The Messenger, Pittsburgh to St. Paul, passed Dubuque on the 26th.

—It is said that the Dexter will enter the New Orleans and Greenville trade, in command of Capt. W. B. Richardson.

—Captain Isaac Bryson has gone to Paducah to take charge of the hulls of the two new boats, for the Keokuk Packet Company. He will take them to St. Louis.

—The Memphis Appeal predicts that the day is near at hand when river towns will not only learn that they have no right to tax steamers for landing, but will be compelled to refund all they have already collected.

—The Stonewall was caught in a storm Monday night, six miles below Brunswick, Me., and her chimneys texas and part of her cabin were blown off. No lives were lost. She was bound for Omaha. Her passengers were transferred to the Walter B. Dance, a steamer bound up the river. The damage will probably amount to three or four thousand dollars, which is covered by insurance, if it amounts to the necessary five per cent, of valuation. The damage occurred at Buck Horn Point.

—A late St. Paul Paper says: Capt. Lon. Bryson, of Cincinnati, Ohio, well known among river men, especially on the Ohio river, arrived here on Sunday, per Key City. He first visited St. Paul in 1867, at which time he was one of the clerks on the Frank Steel. He thinks some of going into business here, as every thing is dull on the Ohio.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Republican voters of Allegheny county are requested to meet at the usual places for holding elections in the several wards, boroughs and townships, on

SATURDAY, MAY 29th, 1869,

And elect delegates from each election district to each of the three following Conventions, viz:

Two delegates from each to the COUNTY CONVENTION, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Sheriff, Recorder, Register, Treasurer, Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions, Clerk of the Orphans' Court and Commissioner.

Two other delegates from each to the LEGISLATIVE CONVENTION, for the purpose of nominating one candidate for State Senator, for one year, to fill the unexpired term of Russell Errett, resigned, and six candidates for Assembly. And

Two other delegates from each to the JUDICIAL CONVENTION, to nominate one candidate for Judge of the District Court, and one candidate for Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, and elect eight delegates to represent the county in the Republican State Convention.

These Conventions will severally meet, in the city of Pittsburgh, on

TUESDAY, JUNE 1, 1869.

At 11 o'clock A. M., at the following places:

The COUNTY CONVENTION will meet at the COURT HOUSE.

The LEGISLATIVE CONVENTION will meet at CITY HALL, on Market street. And

The JUDICIAL CONVENTION will meet in MASONIC HALL, on Fifth avenue, between Wood and Smithfield streets.

The election of delegates will be held between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock P. M., and will be held, as far as practicable, by the Republican members of the election boards in the several districts; and in those districts where the Republican election officers are a minority of the regular election boards, the said officers are authorized to appoint enough additional officers to complete the board.

The voting in the cities and boroughs shall, in all cases, be by ballot, and in the townships by marking.

The President of each Convention will appoint a Committee of three, the three Committees thus appointed to meet together, as soon as practicable after the adjournment of the Conventions, and appoint a County Committee for the ensuing year.

By order of the County Committee.

RUSSELL ERRETT, Chairman.
JOHN H. STEWART, Secretary.

THE Republicans of Maine hold their State Convention June 24th, to nominate a candidate for Governor.

THE public waits, with some impatience, for the Commercial to specify the ring-politicians whom it has been vaguely denouncing of late. Names, neighbor, names!

OHIO has reduced the total of her funded debt, within twenty years, from some $23,000,000 to $10,000,000. Twenty-five years ago, her bonds were sold at less than fifty per cent; to-day, these securities deservedly reach at the top of the market. The work of liquidation has been undertaken, and so far carried triumphantly through, under Whig and Republican auspices.

FOR an alleged libellous publication, copied, from a disreputable print in the interior of the State, by the Pittsburgh Commercial, and reflecting upon Hon. RUSSELL ERRETT, that gentleman has instituted proceedings, both civil and criminal, against the Commercial. If all reports be true, our neighbor is about to have still other invitations, to a careful study of the laws of this Commonwealth for the protection of individual reputations from indiscriminate assaults.

MR. ROBERT MCKENZIE, an extensive manufacturer from Scotland, is about to lead a large colony of his countrymen to Kansas, on the line of the Kansas Pacific Railway. He is now in that State looking out for a location and negotiating for land. Several other large colonies have lately gone, or are on the way, to the same destination—one composed of Swedes, the number of whom is said to be between thirty and forty thousand. Another large colony, gathered in Cleveland and the neighborhood, went to Kansas this spring. Probably no State ever filled up so rapidly.

THE Pacific Railway business looks better, under the recent examination by a Government Commission. The defects in its construction are faithfully pointed out, and the just expectations of the country, which has afforded the means for the consummation of this great National work, have been taken as the standard by which the work has been examined in the most critical detail. The Commissioners report, in substance, that while a large expenditure would have made a better road, yet that, as built on the present lines, and after being completed according to the requirements of the law, the road will be such as the Government and people may accept as a first class railway. The two Companies are prompt to satisfy the wishes of the Administration, depositing the security of their first mortgage bonds for their faithful execution of all the legal conditions. These bonds, it may be remembered, constitute the first lien upon the roads.

THE late DR. JAMES RUSH, of Philadelphia, of a family distinguished in the revolutionary, diplomatic and scientific annals of this country, was himself a physician and author of the highest reputation. His work on the "Human Voice" is accepted, by the profession universally, as, upon that function being the most complete authority extant. Dying last week at the advanced age of eighty-four years, he left an immense estate, the bulk of which, comprising an entire block of ground on Broad and Christian streets, with nearly a million of dollars in other property, he has bequeathed to the Philadelphia Library Company. A magnificent structure is to be erected there, for the diffusion of popular knowledge, his will specifying many details for the building itself. This princely gift constitutes, next to that of his townsman GIRARD, the noblest endowment ever conferred upon any institution devoted to scientific and popular instruction in America.

THE In Memoriam proceedings of Saturday were creditable to the patriotism of our people, and gave a marked proof of their grateful sense of the services of the dead brave who, dying, saved their country's liberties, and vindicated the God-given rights of humanity. Our extended report, this morning, will afford to readers generally a very just idea of the enthusiastic accord with which all classes and ages united, to render the tribute of a loving memory to them who gave themselves a blood-offering for the redemption of the Republic. Withal, the impression generally obtains that the annually recurring occasion should not be observed with ceremonial demonstrations in any way kindred to those with which the country welcomes its national holyday, the Fourth of July. Somewhat less of pomp and circumstance, of gay music and of mere formalities, might safely be held neither to obscure the main idea, nor to diminish the touching warmth of the popular sentiment.

ELSEWHERE, we announce, so far as received, the result of the Republican primary meetings held on Saturday afternoon throughout the county. The elections appear to have been conducted everywhere in an orderly manner, and there was a very full vote polled. We do not know all the gentlemen whose names appear as delegates to the several conventions, but have personal acquaintance with and knowledge of the great majority of them, in whose wisdom, justice and strict integrity we feel assured the entire people can safely repose the largest confidence. From all indications the Conventions will fully and faithfully represent the Republican feeling of the county. We are hopeful that the proceedings will be harmonious, orderly and discreet, and that the important trust confided in the six hundred and forty-two delegates sent fresh from the people to represent them in these political councils, may be so carefully guarded as to preclude the faintest suspicion of a desire to put forward any ticket that will not merit the unqualified endorsement of every good citizen in the county.

BUT TWELVE States have certified to the State Department their ratification of the XVth Article. Rhode Island disappoints the just expectations of patriotism and an enlightened knowledge, by postponing the question to January next. The Senate gave a large majority for ratification, but the Assembly seems to have listened rather to the suggestions of a peculiar State policy, than to the conclusive arguments of a broader statesmanship in support of an Universal Liberty. We have heretofore spoken of the purely local objections which the Article has encountered in that State, but, in common with the closest observers elsewhere, we have not suffered ourselves to entertain any serious doubts as to a favorable issue to the discussions among her people. Her present action will awaken the most profound regrets among the supporters of American Republicanism everywhere. We have no reproaches for our Rhode Island friends, who have come to their own decision entirely within the constitutional privileges of their State. Rather, we would remit the adjourned question to their own thoughtful deliberations, feeling an unabated confidence in the patriotic wisdom of their ultimate decision upon its National merits.

AN outrageous swindle on the newspaper proprietors of the country has just developed itself in an association formed to control the manufacture of straw printing paper. Finding the press of the country asleep to their interests, a clique of shrewd speculators purchased all the patents held in the country based on the adaptation of straw in the manufacture of paper, and, through false representations, imposed on Congress and had the principal patent extended seven years. They now propose reaping the advantage of the monopoly, and have notified paper dealers that they must pay a stipulated royalty to them on every ream of paper made in which straw enters as a component. This must necessarily either decrease the limited profits of those engaged in paper making or largely increase to publishers the cost of paper. The paper used by the press generally contains fully fifty per cent. straw, if not much more, and if this grand monopoly be not set aside and rendered powerless to exact a fraudulent tribute, expenses for material would be largely increased, and to no other purpose than to enrich the designing monopolists. One of two things must be done by Congress in the premises—either repeal the duty on foreign paper or the rescind the patent extension which was obtained in a dishonest manner. The press of the entire country should take immediate steps to baffle the schemes of the dishonest clique that have entered into combination against their interests.

DEATH OF WM. BARKER, ESQ.

To-day we announce the death of a friend, who for fully half a century has been a subscriber and reader of the GAZETTE, and who, during the same long period, has held high place amongst our most esteemed merchants, meriting the confidence, good will and respect of all with whom he came in contact, whether in social or business life. We refer to Mr. WILLIAM BARKER, who suddenly, though not unexpectedly, passed from earth to eternity yesterday morning, at his residence on Smithfield street. The deceased had attained the ripe old age of seventy-four years. He came to this city from England in 1818, and engaged extensively in wool dealing, a trade with which his name is intimately associated throughout the entire country. He retired from business in 1863, after amassing a comfortable fortune, and was succeeded by his nephew at the old stand. Kind hearted, good and charitable, an honest man in all his dealings, a consistent and zealous Christian, he carried with him to the grave a long life record pure and unsullied, and such as assures the hope that he closed his eyes in death to open them anew in an eternity of happiness.

THE GREAT TRUNK-RAILWAY.

We print elsewhere such particulars, of the lease of the Fort Wayne line to the Pennsylvania Railroad, as have yet reached us. It is somewhat remarkable that the press of this city should have been entirely precluded from any reliable information, as to the progress and final consummation of a transaction in which our local interests are so deeply concerned. Although one of the corporations has maintained its principal office in this city, our journals have invariably first learned of any important developments in its current policy, through the press of New York and Philadelphia. We do not complain of this, but suggest it as explanatory of the occasional misapprehensions into which our newspapers have been led. Perhaps, after July, we shall have less need for seeking home news in the New York journals.

This lease is very justly regarded as taking the Fort Wayne property entirely out of the speculative stock-markets, retiring it as a solid and permanent investment, of the most desirable character, for one or more generations to come. The active accounts of the Company are about to close, upon a basis which presents the brightest vindication of the energy and wisdom devoted to its management through all difficulties and perils. We doubt if a more distinguished example of administrative skill and of financial success can be found in the entire railway field of this country, than is afforded in the history of the Fort Wayne Railroad, from the days of its early and almost hopeless struggles, against an unfavorable tide of circumstances, up to this hour, when the record is crowned by an absolute and irreversible success.

The Pennsylvania Railroad thus connects its Philadelphia terminus, at the seaboard, with another at Chicago, and still another at Cincinnati, each a direct line of eight hundred miles, and the first complete consolidated railway from the Atlantic coast to those great internal entrepots of the traffic of the Continent. The lines from Omaha will pour the business of the Pacific coast into her Chicago depots, and all the States of the Southwest will offer their tributary trade at Cincinnati. The policy which has carried our great Pennsylvania enterprise to those far western points, is not likely to halt there. We may safely anticipate for it a continued progress, and successes reaching still farther.

We may look upon our own city as thus becoming the gateway for the most considerable railway traffic of the American continent, and the benefits to ensue thereby, directly and indirectly, to our material interests, are simply above the reach of any present computation.

A CARD.

EDITORS GAZETTE: The Commercial having failed to refute any of the denials set forth in my card of the 27th instant, must stand before the public a confessed libeler.

The wishy-washy article of the 28th inst. will attract the attention of its readers only as a dodge and an effort to be relieved from the difficulty into which it had been placed by its slanderous calumnies.

The public, however, will hold that paper responsible for the charges it has made, and no amount of sophistry on the part of its editor will be able to divert their attention from its false and impudent assertions.

I now dismiss the Commercial as unworthy of further notice, edited by an adventurer amongst us, who assumes to control the affairs of the county and, failing in this, attempts to blacken the fame of all those who may differ with him in his peculiar views of legislation.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

The Old School General Assembly.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 29.—In the Old School Assembly a Committee was appointed to assist at the decoration of soldiers' graves in Brooklyn on Monday.

The report of the Board of Domestic Missions was presented and showed a balance in the treasury, above all indebtedness, of $48,348. The whole number of missionaries last year was 546.

Resolutions were offered by Dr. Taylor, of Georgetown, conveying Christian salutations to the Presbyterian churches of the Southern States, and expressing a desire that the day may not be distant when we may again be united into a great organization that shall cover our whole land.

Whereupon Dr. Taylor made remarks strongly favoring Union with the Southern Church.

Delegates from the Presbyterian Church of Bohemia were received and delivered addresses, to which the Moderator replied.

Christian salvations were directed to be telegraphed to the Synod of Calvanistic Methodists, in session at Newark, Ohio, in response to a dispatch received from that body.

The reports of the Committee on Union with the Church South, and on nomination of Trustees for the Theological Seminaries were adopted as orders for Monday.

The New School General Assembly.

In the New School Assembly, Rev. Dr. Adams, from Joint Committee on Union with United Presbyterians and others, reported their meeting in Philadelphia last January, and asked that the Committee be continued. Agreed to.

The Committee appointed to co-operate with similar Committees from other bodies in securing such action as Congress may deem best in regard to chaplaincies in the army and navy, reported.

The Bohemian Church delegation were received and delivered addresses, to which the Moderator replied. They ask some $2,400 to complete a normal school. The subject was referred to a special committee.

The Committee on Mileage reported a balance of $2,067 on hand, which was appropriated toward the expenses of delegates to the session in Pittsburgh next November, and an assessment of four cents per member was made for the same purpose.

The claims and objects of the Christian Union Society were explained by Rev. Dr. Fisher, as was the history of Evangelical alliance by Rev. Dr. Primer.

Congratulations were sent to the Synod of the Welsh Methodist Church, Newark, O., in return for their greetings.

Rev. Dr. Cuyler, Chairman of Executive Committee of National Temperance Society, made an appeal for assistance of Churches in securing a permanent publication fund.

Judge Strong offered a resolution sympathizing with the Conference of Evangelical Christians of the United States to meet in New York the ensuing autumn, and with that of all the world, to assemble in the same place in 1870.

A communication was received from the other Assembly, that they had concurred in the joint resolution concerning a pastoral letter.

The Committee on Bills and Overtures reported the resolution adopted by the other body relative to a day of prayer for the maintenance of peaceful relations with England. Made the special order for Monday.

THE CAPITAL.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—During Sunday the graves of Union dead at the cemetery near Soldiers' Home, at Glenwood and other localities in the neighborhood of Washington city were decorated with flowers. Several sermons were preached in churches appropriate to the occasion. A large number of the persons at cemeteries were this afternoon scattered by a rain and hail storm which, though of not more than half an hour's duration, did considerable damage. In the northern suburbs the wind blew over several buggies, slightly injuring the occupants. One or two houses were unroofed. A small frame tenement, in which four men had taken refuge, parted at the top and fell to the ground. One of the parties was badly injured.

Speech by General Butler.

Gen. B. F. Butler, in concluding his address on Saturday, on the occasion of decorating soldiers' graves at Gloucester, Mass., said:

"While we mourn the departed with softened grief, because of the great work they have wrought, we may not forget the wrongs which filled so many of these graves, which have become the very altars of liberty. While we swear our children upon them to eternal fealty to free institutions, equal rights, and equal powers of all men, we may not, as did the Carthagenian, swear eternal hatred to Rome. Yet we do remember that government whose ready aid, and perfidious aid, to rebellion in behalf of slavery, cost so much and so many who lie buried here. We will teach our children here, by these green mounds which cover their fathers' ashes, to enforce the lesson in the story of the hatred of the monarchy of republican institutions, which sought to strangle this free government at its birth, hiring Hessian and savage warriors to fight the battles against our fathers in the war for independence. That government, which then failed to make slavery the rule on land, even against an infant republic, yet vaunting herself mistress of the sea, and through search in after years, tried but failed to make the ocean and those who go down to the seas her subjects. Let us tell our children, and call the spirits of the gallant dead who hover around us to bear us witness and impress the lesson, how, when slavery, her legacy to us as a nation, had caused treason and rebellion to raise their parricidal hands against the nation's life, and by its fiendish spirit to arm brother against brother, England, jealous of our prosperity, in rivalry of her commercial greatness, and in hatred of our freedom, when she could do so with safety to herself, when she hoped we were in a death grapple with each other, let loose her steamers to destroy our ships, as she had sent barbarous Indians to burn the dwellings of our mothers and scalp them and their little ones. Hereafter, when the Gloucester boy shall say to his father, 'Where are the fishing vessels that you once had as the dependence of your old age,' the man shall answer, 'Boy, do you remember the smoke you saw from the eastern point when a child? That was your father's vessel, burned by pirates sent out from British ports by British builders, who were cheered for so doing by a British Parliament.' The boy will say 'What shall be demanded for so great a wrong?' and the old man shall write the single word 'Reparation.' And so shall the remembrance of the injuries received be kept alive in the hearts of the people."

Supposed Suicide—A Touching Letter.

At Chicago, about one o'clock Sunday morning, a lady's cloak was found lying on the wharf, and soon after a lady's hat was discovered floating in the river. In the pocket of the cloak were found several letters, two photographs, and a handkerchief, marked "Nellie E. Dorsett." These letters explained a story of love, elopement, desertion and death. The letters were written by a young man named Geo. H. Burr, a traveling agent for a New York drug house, to Nellie, and are marked by the usual characteristics of such letters. There was but one letter written by the girl, and this shows her determination to commit self-destruction. It is as follows: "Dear George: It is is not in anger I write to you now. I have no curses to heap upon you, but only love and forgiveness. Oh, George, if you had only known how fervently, passionately I love you, you would not have deserted me so cruelly. I left home, parents, everything for you, George, trusting to your love, for you did love me once. Oh, how my heart yearns for a return of its devotion. But I will not reproach you. I am aweary and shall soon be at rest, and God, perhaps, will forgive the error of a poor girl so unworthy of his love. I have left my watch for Mrs. Foster to send to mother. My rings and your little locket I have put up in a package for you. I would not leave you, dear George, without a token of my love, and if this last act of mine shall touch your heart, I shall be happy in death. Pray for me. Good night! Good night!

NELLIE."

Some two weeks since the Superintendent of Police of Chicago received a letter from M. M. Dorsett, 263 Broadway, New York, saying that his daughter Nellie had eloped with Burr and would probably come to that city. The river was dragged, but no body found.

Sacred Concert.

With pleasure we learn that Philip Phillips, better known as the Singing Pilgrim, is to give one of his entertainments at the First Methodist Church, (Rev. A. Clarke's,) Fifth avenue, on Wednesday evening, June 2d. This is our usual prayer meeting night, but an evening cannot be more profitably spent than in listening to his wonderful voice in the rendition of sacred melodies now peculiarly his own. At his last concert the church was filled with a delighted audience. We have no doubt this one will be as successful. Tickets are for sale at the principal music stores of this and Allegheny City. Go by all means, and early if you want a good seat.

East Liberty Concert.

East Liberty is fast becoming one of the most populated parts of our consolidated city, without losing the charms of a delightful landscape. It possesses, perhaps, a larger amount of refinement than most populations, and offers all the attractions of the country. Hence we predict that Mr. C. Tetedoux' Concert, on Thursday next, will be attended both by the lovers of music in the place itself and by the lovers of pure air from Pittsburgh. We need not say that the entertainment will meet the highest expectations, and add new laurels to the well established reputation of our amateurs.

Pennsylvania Postmasters.

The following changes of Postmasters in Pennsylvania have been made by Postmaster-General Creswell:

Sherrett, Armstrong county—J. C. Foster, vice T. Morrow, removed.

Bruin, Butler county—N. G. Harshaw, vice A. J. Patton, resigned.

Belle Vernon, Fayette county—James Davidson, vice W. P. Mackey, declined.

Derry Station, Westmoreland county—Lucien Leaf, vice C. L. Staub, resigned.

Locust Lane, Indiana—L. M. G. Lewis, vice H. G. Lewis, resigned.

MECHANICAL MEDICAL APPLIANCES.

There are certain phases of disease, and certain diseased conditions of the human system, which proceed from displacement and mal-position of some of the various organs of the human body. These are not remediable by the usual and ordinary methods used for the cure of other ailments; but require some mechanical stay or support to maintain the parts in position until they are healed. Prominent among these may be classed a displacement called hernia, or rupture, which is a protrusion of part of the bowel, and which must be returned and kept to its place by some outward support which should be properly adjusted in order to secure immunity from inconvenience and danger. The prevalence of this condition is now very common and should be attended to, immediately on its appearance, not only because of the present inconvenience which its produces, but also in consequence of the usual danger of strangulation which is rarely remedied but by a surgical operation.

Varicose veins in the legs and varicocele are other forms of structural changes which need immediate and scientific outward support, in order to afford relief or effect a cure. Each of these conditions are now as much within the pale of successful treatment as any of the other diseases to which mankind are liable.

Stooped shoulders may be cured at once by the use of my Shoulder Braces, which not only maintain the body in an erect position, but at the same time enlarge its capacity, and allow free and full expansion to the lungs, always a necessary condition to a healthy and perfect use of the pulmonary organs.

There are hundreds of females who would find great benefit from wearing these shoulder braces as they are so constructed as to take all the dragging weight from the back or spine and suspend the clothing from the shoulders. Those who use my shoulder braces need not wear suspenders, as they answer the double purpose of shoulder brace and suspenders; in fact they are the best suspenders ever invented. Sold and applied at

DR. KEYSER'S NEW MEDICINE STORE, NO. 167 LIBERTY SREET, TWO DOORS FROM ST. CLAIR. CONSULTATION ROOMS, NO. 120 PENN STREET, FROM 10 A. M. UNTIL 4 P. M. AT THE STORE FROM 4 TO 6 P. M., AND 8 TO 9 AT NIGHT.

THE VITAL STATISTICS OF THE UNITED STATES

Show that periodical fevers and acute and chronic disorders of the stomach and bowels are among the most prominent and fatal diseases in this country. Disobedience to the laws of health, as regards diet; the use of pernicious stimulants; and the wear and tear of business excitement, and of "fast life" generally, have much to do with the prevalence of these maladies in our cities; while in the West, and especially in the newly opened districts, they are chiefly due to malaria, unwholesome water, and the exposure and privation incident to life in new settlements.

NOW, IT IS A FACT that it is as possible to protect the human system against these maladies as to guard life and property against the incursions of assassins and thieves. Strengthen the vital organization with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, and it becomes as capable of resisting the active principle of epidemic or endemic disease, as a fire-proof safe is of resisting the action of combustion. This is the experience of thousands who have remained unscathed by malarious disorders in the sickliest seasons, while their neighbors, who neglected to tone and regulate their systems with this unequaled medicinal stimulant, have fallen thick and fast around them. Weakness invites disease. Vigor repels it. Help nature to fight the good fight with infection, whether it be in the air, in the water, or the soil, with this matchless preparation—a compound of the rarest vegetable extracts with the purest of all diffusive stimulants.

Hogs dull, the disagreeable weather restricting trade, and only choice lots sold readily; sales 1,725 head at yesterday's prices.

Dry Goods Market.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, May 29, 1869.

As business was pretty generally suspended to-day, we omit our usual daily report of the markets, the great majority of the business houses being closed. The markets generally are very dull and heavy, the demand for all of the leading articles being confined entirely to supplying immediate wants, and, as a general thing, prices are still tending downward. It is thought by some dealers that Flour may possibly advance slightly between this and harvest, but of this there is no certainty, and the indications at present do not warrant any such prediction. The demand for Grain is very light and notwithstanding there is no accumulation of stock, the market is exceedingly dull and Rye and Oats have declined. Groceries are also dull, but Sugars are held with a good deal of confidence, in view of a heavy fruit crop. Provisions quiet and unchanged. Butter, to use a common phrase, has got a "black eye," having declined fully fifteen cents per pound during the week; and prime Roll cannot be quoted above 20 cents. Other articles are dull and unchanged.

It is generally expected that business will be dull during the next two months or until after harvest. This is usually the case at this particular season and we see no reason why this year should be an exception.

REVIEW FOR THE WEEK.

The oil market has been quite active during the week which has just closed, the volume of business both here and in the east having been unusually large. The most important and noticeable feature we have to notice is the material decline in prices; while nearly everybody expected that there would be a decline, yet it was more rapid than even the most sanguine expected. Another important and encouraging event is, the fact that additional refineries have resumed operations, and it is probable that the majority of all the prominent manufacturing establishments are now in full blast. It is true, the margin for the manufacturers is yet rather light, but it is generally believed that there will be an improvement in this respect as the season advances. The receipts of Crude by the Allegheny Railroad to-day exceeded six thousand dollars.

Receipts of Crude this week, 7,232 bbls; last week, 9,323; from January 1st to date, 259,026; same time last year, 504,051. Exports Refined this week, 12,589; last week, 10,694; from January 1st to date, 151,517; against 168,198 same time last year. As will be seen above, the receipts of Crude thus far this year show a falling off of 245,025 bbls, compared with the same time last year. The sales this week foot up 95,700 bbls against 71,100 last week. It is but proper to remark, however, that there was a good deal of oil sold of which no report was made, probably 25,000 bbls sold "short" by Eastern operators to Pittsburgh buyers.

CRUDE.

There was considerable oil sold to-day but as will be seen, prices have still further declined. Sales of 2,000 seller June 20th, at 12¾; 1,000 seller 20 days at 12½; 1,000 spot at 12¾; 3,000 seller all year, at 12½; 1,000 July (40 to 45) seller, at 13; 1,000 June, seller, at 12½; 1,500 spot, at 12½, and 3,000 all year, seller, at 12¾. Also, 1,000 seller next week at $4,80 at Venango City, considered equivalent to 12¼ delivered here.

REFINED.

There was but little done in Refined to-day the sales being comparatively light, while as in the case of Crude prices have still further declined. Sales of 500 spot, at 29; 500 May, at 29¼; 1,000 June, at 29¼; 1,500 June, at 29. Compared with the early part of the week, prices have declined 2@3 cents, but operators generally begin to think that the bottom has about been reached, though it may go still lower.

PRESBYTERIAN UNITY.

The new basis of Union was adopted by the Old School Assembly unanimously, and in the New School by a vote of 259 to 8. We copy a report of the proceedings thereon in the latter body, with the full text of the Report and Plan:

The Moderator announced that the Committee was ready to report. The church was now filled. All the spare seats down stairs, as well as the galleries, had occupants of both sexes awaiting with anxious interest the reading of the report. Rev. Wm. Adams, of this city, chairman of the Committee, came forward, amid profound silence, and said that he took pleasure in informing the Assembly that the report of the Joint Committee, composed of ten delegates from each body, was a unanimous one; that although the different interests of both branches of the Church were earnestly and prayerfully discussed, they all were found, at last, converging in one result. He then proceeded to read, in a clear and distinct voice, three papers, being the conjoint results at which the Committee had arrived. The utmost quiet was observed while the papers were being read as follows:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE.

The Committee of Conference appointed by the two General Assemblies have attended to the duty assigned to them, and after a very free interchange of views with prayer to Almighty God for his guidance, are unanimous in recommending to the Assemblies for their consideration and, if they see fit, their adoption, the accompanying three papers, to wit:

1. Plan of Reunion of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America;
2. Concurrent declarations of the General Assemblies of 1869; and
3. Recommendation of a Day of Prayer.

HENRY DAY, Secretary.

PLAN OF REUNION OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Believing that the interest of the Redeemer's kingdom would be promoted by the healing of our divisions, and that the two bodies bearing the same name, have the same Constitution, and each recognizing the other as a sound and orthodox body according to the principles of the confession common to both, cannot be justified by any but the most imperative reasons in maintaining separate and, in some respects, rival organizations; we are now clearly of the opinion that the reunion of those bodies ought, as soon as the necessary steps can be taken, to be accomplished, upon the basis hereinafter set forth:

1. The Presbyterian Churches in the United States of America, namely, that whose General Assembly convened in the Brick Church in the City of New York, on the 20th day of May, 1869, and that whose General Assembly met in the Church of the Covenant in the said City, on the same day, shall be reunited as one Church, under the name and style of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, possessing all the legal and corporate rights and powers pertaining to the Church previous to the division in 1838, and all the legal and corporate rights and powers which the separate Churches now possess.

2. The reunion shall be effected on the doctrinal and ecclesiastical basis of our common standards; the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments shall be acknowledged to be the inspired word of God, and the only infallible rule of faith and practice; the Confession of Faith shall continue to be sincerely received and adopted as containing the system of doctrine taught in the Holy Scriptures, and the government and discipline of the Presbyterian Church in the United States shall be approved as containing the principles and rules of our polity.

3. Each of the said Assemblies shall submit the foregoing basis to its Presbyteries, which shall be required to meet on or before the 15th day of October, 1869, to express their approval or disapproval of the same, by a categorical answer to the following question:

Do you approve of the reunion of the two bodies now claiming the name and rights of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, on the following basis, namely: "The reunion shall be effected on the doctrinal and ecclesiastical basis of our common Standards; the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments shall be acknowedged to be the inspired word of God, and the only infallible rule of faith und practice; the Confession of Faith shall continue to be sincerely received and adopted as containing the system of doctrine taught in the Holy Scriptures, and the government and discipline of the Presbyterion Church in the United States, shall be approved as containing the principles and rules of our polity.

Each Presbytery shall, before the 1st day of November, 1869, forward to the stated clerk of the General Assembly with which it is connected, a statement of its vote on the said basis of reunion.

4. The said General Assemblies now sitting shall, after finishing their business, adjourn to meet in the city of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on the second Wednesday of November, 1869, at 11 o'clock A. M.

It the two General Assemblies shall then find and declare that the above-named basis of reunion has been approved by two-thirds of the Presbyteries connected with each branch of the Church, then the same shall be of binding force, and the two Assemblies shall take action accordingly.

5. The said General Assemblies shall then and there make provision for the meeting of the General Assembly of the united Church on the third Thursday of May, 1870. The Moderators of the two present Assemblies shall jointly preside at the said Assembly of 1870 until another Moderator is chosen. The Moderator of the Assembly now sitting at the Brick Church aforesaid, shall, if present, preach the opening sermon; and the stated clerks of the present Assemblies shall act as stated clerks of the Assembly of the united Church until a stated clerk or clerks shall have been chosen thereby; and no Commissioner shall have a right to vote or deliberate in said Assembly until his name shall have been enrolled by the said clerks, and his commission examined and filed among the papers of the Assembly.

6. Each Presbytery of the separate Churches shall be entitled to the same representation in the Assembly of the united Church in 1870 as it is entitled to in the Assembly with which it is now connected.

CONCURRENT DECLARATIONS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLIES OF 1869.

As there are matters pertaining to the interests of the Church when it shall have become reunited, which will manifestly require adjustment on the coming together of two bodies which have so long acted separately, and concerning some of which matters it is highly desirable that there should be a previous good understanding, the two Assemblies agree to adopt the following declarations, not as articles of compact or covenant, but as in their judgment proper and equitable arrangements, to wit:

1. All the ministers and churches embraced in the two bodies should be admitted to the same standing in the united body which they may have held in their respective connection up to the consummation of the union.

2. Imperfectly organized churches are counselled and expected to become thoroughly Presbyterian as early within the period of five years as may be permitted by the highest interests to be consulted, and no other such churches shall be hereafter received.

3. The boundaries of the several Presbyteries and Synods should be adjusted by the General Assembly of the united Church.

4. The official records of the two branches of the Church for the period of separation should be preserved and held as making up the one history of the Church; and no rule or precedent which does not stand approved by both the bodies, should be of any authority until re-established in the united body, except in so far as such rule or precedent may effect the rights of property founded thereon.

5. The corporate rights new held by the two General Assemblies, and by their Boards and Committees, should, as far as practicable, be consolidated, and applied for their several objects as defined by law.

6. There should be one set of Committees or Boards for Home and Foreign Missions and the other religious enterprises of the Church; which the churches should be encouraged to sustain, though free to cast their contributions into other channels if they desire to do so.

7. As soon as practicable after the union shall have been effected, the General Assembly should reconstruct and consolidate the several Permanent Committees and Boards which now belong to the two Assemblies, so as to represent, as far as possible with impartiality, the views and wishes of the two bodies constituting the united Church.

8. The publications of the Board of Publication and of the Publication Committee should continue to be issued as at present, leaving it to the Board of Publication of the united Church to revise these issues and perfect a catalogue for the united Church so as to exclude invidious references to past controversies.

9. In order to a uniform system of ecclesiastical supervision, those theological seminaries that are now under Assembly control may, if their Boards of Direction so elect, be transferred to the watch and care of one or more of the adjacent Synods; and the other seminaries are advised to introduce, as far as may be, into their constitutions, the principle of Synodical or Assembly supervision; in which case they shall be entitled to an official recognition and approbation on the part of the General Assembly.

10. It should be regarded as the duty of our judicatories, ministers and people in the united Church, to study the things which make for peace, and to guard against all needless and offensive references to the causes that have divided us; and in order to avoid the revival of past issues by the continuance of any usage in either branch of the Church, that has grown out of former conflicts, it is earnestly recommended to the lower judicatories of the Church that they conform their practice in relation to all such usages, as far as is consistent with their convictions of duty, to the general custom of the Church prior to the controyersies that resulted in the separation.

RECOMMENDATION OF A DAY OF PRAYER.

That the counsels of Infinite Wisdom may guide our decisions, and the blessing of the Great Head of the Church rest upon the result of our efforts for reunion, it is earnestly recommended to the churches throughout both branches of the Presbyterian Church, that they observe the second Sabbath in September, 1869, as a day of fervent and united prayer to Almighty God, that he would grant unto us all "the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and the fear of the Lord," and in the new relations now contemplated, enable us to "keep the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace."

The Philadelphia Press says: Under this new consolidation the Presbyterian Church of the United States will embrace in its bounds some three millions of souls, or nearly one-twelfth of the population of the whole country. The last year's statistical reports give the following summaries of the Old and the New School Presbyterians:

| | O. S. | N. S. |
|---|---|---|
| Synods | 26 | 23 |
| Presbyteries | 142 | 111 |
| Ministers | 2,330 | 1,800 |

| Foreign Missions | 282,305 | 108,196 |
| Home Missions | 113,109 | 132,848 |

Leaving these two main wings of the Church, there are other Presbyterian bodies of very respectable numbers: The Southern Presbyterian Assembly comprises 10 synods, 48 presbyteries, 786 ministers, 51 licentiates, 92 candidates, 1,298 churches and 79,949 communicants. The United Presbyterian Church has 7 synods, 50 presbyteries and about 700 ministers and 65,612 communicants. The Cumberland Presbyterian Church has 24 synods, 99 presbyteries, 1,500 ministers and 130,000 communicants. The Reformed Presbyterian Synod has 77 ministers and 8,487 communicants. The Associate Synod has 12 ministers and 1,091 communicants. Besides these there are other small Presbyterian bodies.

THE experiment of propelling the street railway cars at Northampton, Mass., by steam is likely to prove successful. At the late trial the car, while partly loaded, was run with ease up the Mansion House hill, a grade of three hundred feet to the mile.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the livor and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens into the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the liver has done; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If in a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abcesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food. It will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow, the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparation with the same remarkable success. Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond street, New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover street, Boston, every other Wednesday, he gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists. my19:151-d&F

Rev. Dr. Howard, placed a beautiful boquet of flowers upon the tomb of the fallen hero, after which the battalon was divided into four companies, under the command of Captains Silvy, Hunter, Haven and Berger, and under the direction of Mr. Chislett were dispatched to different quarters of the cemetery, in which over twelve hundred who died that their country might live, are buried. Through the vigilance of the committee appointed for the purpose every grave had been designated with a small flag, and upon every one so marked was placed a wreath or boquet by the hand of some surviving comrade. While the members were thus engaged, the mighty throng of people who had entered the "silent city," each bearing a "floral token" of remembrance to some departed friend, wandered promiscuously over the vast and beautiful grounds, and strew their offerings with a liberal hand over the graves of departed friends.

UNIONDALE CEMETERY.

After the Second Division had passed, the First reformed and countermarched by way of Wayne and Liberty streets to Sixth (late St. Clair), along which they moved and crossed the Suspension bridge. While proceeding up Federal street they were joined by a band of Orphans numbering about two hundred from the Allegheny and Pittsburgh Orphan Asylum. Along the line of their march, from public buildings and private houses, flags, wreaths, flowers and sympathizing throngs of spectators, evidenced the feeling with which the ceremonies were received.

Their route lay up Federal street, along North avenue, thence by line of Pleasant Valley Railway and New Brighton road to Uniondale Cemetery, the Hilldale Branch of which they visited first. The entrance to this was beautifully decorated with two large silk flags drooping gracefully from an arch-way draped in evergreens, crape, and flowers. On the right was a portrait of Washington, on the left a portrait of Lincoln, and over the centre a representation of President Lincoln's deathbed. In front of all, extended a little forward, was the motto, in evergreen letters,

"In Honor of our Patriot Dead."

Upon arriving at this gate the orphans were divided and ranged in a line on either side, and the remainder of those marching in the ranks, with colors reversed and heads uncovered, moved into the interior to the music of a solemn dirge from the band. In the centre of the beautiful "God's acre" the procession was halted and the members sought the graves of friends and relatives to express the feeling which had possession of all hearts, in the beautiful language of flowers. Over sixty graves were strewn with the pure emblems in this cemetery, and nearly an equal number in the other branch. The ceremonies in Hilldale being concluded, Mount Union was visited and the same ceremonies observed. The entrance to this was decorated in a neat and tasteful manner, and presented an exceedingly fresh and appropriate appearance. Uniondale, in both branches, was crowded with relatives or friends of the buried braves, and none came without a floral offering which made the air redolent with a rich perfume. The scenes which were witnessed, as the survivors gathered around the graves of the dear departed, and recalled the memories of the loved ones who can never more return, were affecting and sacred in the extreme, and caused the tears to flow freely from many eyes not used to weeping.

The ceremonies over the procession was dismissed at the cemetery, and came back to the city in companies and groups, at the will of those in command.

THE SOUTH SIDE GRAVES.

The Third Division, reforming on Penn street after the departure of the others, proceeded along Wayne, down Liberty, along Smithfield streets, and over the Monongahela bridge, from whence it proceeded to the several cemeteries. Along the line of march, additions were made to its numbers by delegations from from the Sunday Schools and Public Schools, while a large crowds of interested men, women and children followed in the rear. St. Michaels Cemetery on the Brownsville road was first visited, when the graves were strewn, while the children, under the leadership of Prof. J. A. Jones, sang several appropriate songs. The Methodist graveyard, Hershberger's and Zimmerman's were next visited in order, and similar ceremonies gone through with, after which Lieutenant David Jones, with a delegation, proceeded to Concord Churchyard to decorate the graves of several soldiers buried there, while the remainder of the company dispersed to their homes, with renewed remembrances of love and affection for the gallant heroes by whom the nation was preserved,

AT MANSFIELD.

"How solemn yet how grand."

The citizens of the thriving village of Mansfield performed the solemn ceremony of decorating the graves of the brave soldiers who fell in defence of their homes and firesides, with a more than usual demonstration of loyalty and fidelity. The scene was the grandest and most solemn that it has ever been our fortune to witness.

Early in the morning the citizens were to be seen hastening to the O. S. Presbyterian church ladened with flowers of every description and color.

At 10 o'clock A. M., when the immense throng had assembled, an appropriate song was sung by "The Village Choir," after which a prayer was offered by the Rev. J. A. Snodgrass. A short address was then delivered by Rev. Watring, after which a hymn was sung by the choir.

The procession was formed under command of W. J. Ford, Chief Marshal, and J. A. Dunbar and A. G. Negley, Assistant Marshals. The van consisted of the "Boys in Blue," from Scott and adjoining townships, under command of Captain Harry Lea, forming a large and fine-looking company. This band of returned warriors assembled, many of them under difficult circumstances, to perpetuate the memory of their comrades who fell battling for liberty on the sunny plains of the South.

After the soldiers came the children of the Sabbath and Public Schools, dressed in gala costume, and their faces bright with smiles. They numbered near two hundred. They were followed by the students of Linnean Academy, under command of Prof. Dickson, these being ladies and gentleman, and many of the teachers, made a very fine appearance. The citizens of Scott and adjoining townships, under W. G. Bigham, brought up the rear of the procession. There were at least five hundred persons in the procession.

On reaching the Cemetery an earnest prayer was offered by Rev. Watring. After which an elaborate oration was delivered by Rev. Snodgrass, recalling the memories of his comrades in arms to the times of yore when they fought together and lay side by side on the torrid plains of the South, also reminding the audience they had a duty to perform to the orphans of those whose memory they were perpetuating.

The flowers were strewn upon the graves by the soldiers and children. Each grave with choice flowers. Sixteen graves were thus decorated, after which the procession returned to Mansfield and was dismissed at the church, all satisfied they had performed a duty which in after years as sweet memory recalls the many duties they have performed, they can say the sweetest and most solemn duty ever fiulfilled was strewing with flowers the soldiers' graves.

OUR GERMAN SOLDIERS.

The procession on Saturday afternoon found it impossible, owing to its distance from the main line of march to visit the German Graveyard on Troy Hill. There are about a dozen soldiers buried in this quiet spot, and yesterday afternoon, in order that they might not be forgotten, their friends, headed by the German Turners and several singing societies, formed a procession and proceeded thither. At the Cemetery a beautiful memorial hymn, prepared for the occasion, was sung by the children. The graves were then decorated with the fresh bright flowers, after which Rev. Schielling delivered a touching eulogium in memory of the deceased. The procession did not reform, but the company after remaining in the vicinity for several hours, returned in parties, to their respective homes.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

As a fitting and appropriate finale, in compliance with the request of the Committee, nearly all the ministers in the vicinity held religious services in their churches yesterday, especially commemorative of the memorial occasion. The attendance upon these exercises was unusually large, and gave further testimony to the feeling of deep interest pervading the community in the matter. The discourses were marked with earnest and practical thoughts, and in a very credible degree, evinced the fervent patriotism with which our ministry are animated. We regret that it is impossible for us to lay before our readers a synopsis of some of them which were worthy of a more extended circulation than even that provided by the large audiences to which they were delivered.

The Great Hail Storm at Wheeling.

The brief announcement which the telegraph made of the terrific hail storm which visited Wheeling on Friday afternoon, gave no proper idea of its magnificent proportions. The day opened bright and balmy, but at three o'clock it the afternoon, says the Intelligencer, a dark and heavy cloud, apparently a short distance above the earth, overcast the sky, and the atmosphere became close and stifling. All at once a terrific blast of wind burst and swept everything before it. The dust was so thick and blinding that nothing could be seen for a few seconds, but when the large and heavy drops of rain had laid the drifting dirt, the scene was one of terrible yet peculiar significance. Not a moment was allowed to merchants for removing the goods which were in front of their stores, or the housekeepers for closing blinds, doors or shutters, and these moveables, together with roofs, timbers, chimneys, etc., were flying in every direction, as if an earthquake had shaken the city from the foundation. Before the wind had ceased, and it did not last but a moment, the rain had changed to hail, which rattled against the windows for a moment and then perforated the glass as the lumps of congealed water grew in size. The sound upon the pavements and the roofs was like the rapid firing of musketry, and so great was the force of the stones that shutters were smashed and even the window sashes beaten and broken to pieces. Not only this but the walls across the rooms from the windows were indented and the plastering in some cases beaten off to the solid masonry.

When the storm was at its highest fury, the hail stones were of the size of a man's clenched fist and solid as canister balls, which they very much resembled in appearance. They were in most cases nearly round, being slightly flattened on two sides like an apple, with small holes or indentations resembling the place where the stem joins the core, on one side. The streets in the lower portion of the city or that part nearest the river were covered to the depth of a foot with these wonderful balls of ice, and every window facing the north, from which direction the storm came, are filled with broken panes.

No loss of life but great damage to property was sustained.

Drowned.

Coroner Clawson, yesterday, held an inquest on the body of Wilhelmina Bersier, a German woman, found in the Allegheny river Saturday evening. The woman resided with her son in Birmingham, and at an early hour on Monday morning of last week, she left the house, and was not seen afterwards until the body was discovered in the river. The verdict of the jury was that she came to her death on the 24th instant by drowning while laboring under an aberation of mind.

THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Progress of the Episcopal Church in this City—Bishop Kerfoot—Rev. Dr. Page—Christs Church and the New Rector, Rev. B. F. Brooke—Sermons on Immortality.

It is an established fact that the Episcopal Church, in this community, is enlarging its borders, and growing in numbers, wealth and power. The causes may be traced to several sources, besides the usual natural growth attending any vigorous communion, and the acquisition of wealth by its members and adherents. Foremost among the causes of this prosperity is the ignoring of the principles of centralization of wealthy members and active workers, except in a limited degree. This principle has been seen in the case of other religious bodies here, and the practical results are the same. Weak members have been strengthened and made prosperous. The augmentation of wealth, too, has had much to do with the upholding of the Episcopal church in this city. The erection of St. Peters, St. James, and several beautiful edifices in the rural districts, now embraced in our consolidated city, the remodeling of Christ Church, Allegheny, and rebuilding of St. Andrews, and the grand project just commenced by Trinity church, are evidences of growing power as a church.

To what extent the erection of this end of the State into a separate Diocese and the elevation of Dr. Kerfoot to the Episcopate, has had to do with this rapid growth of late years, we are unprepared to state, but we believe that the increasing labors, in the ramifications of the Church, by Bishop Kerfoot, are producing a rich fruitage. When so much labor has been bestowed, and system employed, in diocesan movements, the results cannot be otherwise than favorable to the growth and prosperity of the Church.

Christ Church, Alllegheny, in by gone years labored, under serious disadvantages, which greatly hindered the growth of the congregation. However, under the faithful Rectorship of the venerable Dr. Page—enjoyed a good degree of prosperity and the congregation re-modle the church edifice. After a liberal outlay of money, the otd structure has been thoroughly modernized and beautified throughout. It is now an ornament to the city in its eligible location. The venerable Dr. Page in retiring from the Rectorship of the Church, after a long and honorable ministry, has much to congratulate himself on such a happy termination of his active ministry.

Quite recently the Rev. B. F. Brooke, formerly of Baltimore, but more recently of Memphis, Tenn., has entered upon the duties of the Rectorship of this Church. Some years ago this divine visited Pittsburgh to reopen a prominent church, and made hosts of friends by his excellent sermons on that occasion. Since his arrival in Allegheny, some weeks ago, he has amply demonstrated his ability as a pulpit speaker. Mr. Brooke is a ready speaker, reads wells, possesses a capital voice, graceful in gesture, and a gentleman of much sauvity in his manners. His discourses are carefully prepared, terse, and vigorous in style and argument, sufficiently glowing to make them attractive.

Mr. Brooke has just closed a series of three discourses, on Sunday evenings, on the subject of Immortality, which attracted large audiences, including visitors from other denominations. In discussing this great subject, one of the pillars of the Christian religion, he elaborated and illustrated, at considerable length, the following propositions: 1. Immortality is a natural hope. 2. Immortality is a philosophical problem. 3. Immortality is a revealed truth. It is nature's instinct, the philosopher's conjecture, the Christian's verity. The idea is the poetry of feeling, the problem of reason the basis of revelation. In considering the first he argued that the idea had always lived, and the time never was when from the anxious heart of a tearful humanity there came not up in accents half hopeful, half desponding, the fearful question, "If a man die shall he live again?" As to the origin of this idea, he showed the views of Homer, Virgil, Plato and others, but argued, put all the sayings of these great men together, and what do they prove? not that man is immortal, but that man everywhere believes in, desires and expects immortality, that it is a natural and instinctive hope. Passages of great beauty and massive thought abounded, in discussing the proposition.

The reverend speaker assumed the ground in discoursing upon immortality as a philosophical problem, that no more philosophical arguments ever have produced a satisfactory demonstration of the soul's immortality; but on the contrary, human philosophy has often doubted, and denied the doctrine altogether. It was argued that any argument cannot be produced from modern philosophy for the soul's immortality which may not be found in the ancient. The Roman orator asserts, "since the nature of the mind is simple, nor can be divided, it cannot be destroyed," and yet he added, "I do not say this is infallible, I speak only conjecture." No man can say that the soul is an immaterial substance outside of the Bible, and suppose it could be proved to be immaterial, would not necessarily prove it to be immortal. In the further discussion of this part he showed that the philosophical reasoning rests mainly on the idea that the soul is naturally immortal—immortal by constitution, by inherent properties of its own; that God has put upon it marks of endless duration, and that once existing, it must exist forever. He contended it is the will of God to continue the existence he has given. The second discourse was mainly devoted to the doctrine of the resurrection, in which the reverend gentleman assumes that the idea of immortality could never be realized by the human mind apart from the resurrection. Immortality is shown to be exclusively a revealed truth; and not susceptible of any proof from the principles of natural reason, and is based upon the fact that Christ is the life of the soul, as he is the resurrection of the body.

The closing discourse was on Immortality as a Source of Christian Consolation. We wish our space would allow us to give the unanswerable arguments in favor of this doctrine as a source of rich consolation to Christians. The speaker in closing, was touchingly eloquent on the grand theme, and left a fine impression on the vast throng.

Mr. Slattery, of St. James.

POLITICAL.

The Primary Meetings—Election of Delegates to the County, Judicial and Legislative Conventions.

The Republican primary meetings were held throughout the county on Saturday afternoon for the purpose of selecting delegates to the several nominating conventions which will assemble in this city to-morrow. Much interest was manifested, and an unusually heavy vote was polled. It is useless for us to attempt any calculation as to the relative chances of any of the aspiring candidates for nomination, as many of the delegates are uninstructed, and the returns are meagre. We can all patiently await the results of the conventions to-morrow, in the meantime hoping that only the best men may triumph.

Musical Note.—Miss Theresa McKenna, who made such a profound sensation by her exquisite vocalism at a recent public concert in this city, was unexpectedly called to New York, her home, on Saturday, and left on the evening train. Arragements on a liberal scale were being made to tender her a grand complimentary concert, but as she was not aware of the fact, and has taken her departure, Pittsburgh is deprived of the pleasure of thus honoring the brilliant and pleasing vocalist who so rapidly won her way into public favor.

Anti-Lay Delegation Meeting.—A meeting will be held at the Smithfield M. E. Church on this (Monday) evening, at which views and arguments on the above side of the question will be presented. J. W. F. White, Esq., and other speakers will address the meeting. All are invited to attend in order to have as much information as possible on a matter of so much importance to the church.

The Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Teachers' Association will commence its annual session Tuesday next, in Williamsport. A number of delegates from this city will be in attendance. The session will continue two days, and promises to be one of great interest to those engaged in the Sabbath School work.

No Humbug.

The celebrated X. A. L. ALL. Refrigerators, which G. W. Hubley is sole agent for, at No. 68 Federal street, Allegheny, are just exactly what they claim to be—excelling in positive merit any other form of ice chest known to the trade or public. We have yet to hear of the first dissatisfied customer who has given one of these indispensible articles for hot weather use a fair trial. They are furnished with butter crocks, water jars, meat racks, are well ventilated, use less ice and make it go farther, than any competing article in the market. Now is the time to buy.

The Family Favorite.

Ladies, be not deceived! The Family Favorite is the name of the new Weed Sewing Machine, manufactured at Hartford, Connecticut, with the initial letters "F. F." duly branded in gold upon each machine. It has well won the proud distinction to such a title, for probably, no machine ever met with such an unprecedented success in so short a period of time.

Do not be persuaded to buy any others who borrow claims to such a title, but go and get the GENUINE FAMILY FAVORITE at R. H. Long & Co., 116 Market street.

Hagan's Magnolia Balm.—This article is the True Secret of Beauty. It is what Fashionable Ladies, Actresses, and Opera Singers use to produce that cultivated distingue appearance so much admired in the Circles of Fashion.

It removes all unsightly Blotches, Redness, Freckles, Tan, Sunburn and Effects of Spring Winds, and gives to the Complexion a Blooming Purity of transparent delicacy and power. No lady who values a fine Complexion can do without the Magnolia Balm. 75 cents will buy it at any of our respectable dealers.

LYON'S KATHAIRON is a very delightful Hair Dressing. MWF

Economical, Reliable, the Best.

We mean DOOLEY'S BAKING POWDER It is superior to all others in the market. Free from any injurious substances, and so nicely compounded that the contents of each box will make light, sweet, healthy biscuits, rolls, pastry, &c., with uniform success. Only two teaspoonfuls to a quart of flour is necessary, while those of ordinary manufacture require from one-third to a half more. Ask your grocer for Dooley's Chemical Yeast Baking Powder, and take no other. Try it and be convinced. MWF
